RATTLESNAKES PLENTIFUL.

Rattlesnakes are plentiful this fall, and seem to emerge from their holes late in the afternoon. In cases of being bitten, instant cutting and opening of the wound should follow and the blood and poison sucked out, followed by cauterizing. Heroic treatment is often successful if not delayed too long, allowing the venom to get into circulation. A physician should be called at once, if possible.

TO REPRESENT TOMBSTONE

A. H. Gardner, director of the Southwestern Bankhead Highway Association left yesterday for Tucson, where a very important meeting of that organization is to be held today, at which Col. Ed. Fletcher, of San Diego, who is the personal representative of the Southern California Automobile Club and California State Highway Commission, is to meet the officers of the Southwestern Bankhead and decide some very important road matters. Mr. Fletcher is accompanied by several members of the California commission and its engineers.

RETURN FROM TOMBSTONE.

Thomas Fraser, accompanied by P. A. Comer and C. C. Coates, the latter from the Hardshell mine, have returned from a three-days trip to Tombstone, where they have been making an inspection of the Lucksure mine in that district, with the object in view of taking a lease on same. Mr. Fraser is greatly impressed with the activity manifested in the pioneer silver camp and says that it is the only camp in this section of Arizona that is making a showing in mining circles.—Santa Cruz Patagonian.

Tom Fraser is well known in Tombstone and if he and his associates find any encouragement in their visit to the Lucksure property they will be a welcome addition to the mining fraternity of Tombstone. The Lucksure is right between the Lucky Cuss, the Oregon and Prompter, and is in a mighty good country. Some development work at the Lucksure may revive the old property as a famous producer.

ferent role for each decade. In her support is the veteran actor, Frank Losee. There will also be two reels of comedy, making a seven reel show at regular prices.

SHIPPED CATTLE BACK.

Wm. Lutley, well known Tombstone cattleman, returned to Tombstone yesterday following a two month's trip to various states on matters connected with cattle on pasture in Texas. While he disposed of a number of head in South Dakota, Mr. Lutley shipped back over 300 head to his ranch in the Swissbelms, which he has had on pasture in Texas during the drought. He reports that Fred Bennett, another Tombstone cattleman, who has cattle on pasture on the Pecos, is moving them about 50 miles further inland and will return to Tombstone next week.

COLD SNAP.

Tombstone was not overlooked in the cold snap which hit all of southern Arizona last night, and as a result people were busy today dragging out their heating stoves to prepare for what the old timers say will be a "long, hard winter."

WINTER WINDS

CAUSE CLERKS

START SHIMMY

The Cochise county court house was no place for an advocate of modern dance reform today.

This morning the officers and assistants in the various offices were brought face to face with the puzzling problem of what had become of the summer wages, as the unexpected and sudden cold snap caught the heating appliances stored away in the store-room, with the result that through force of circumstances, dignity was thrown to the winds and persons shimmied who had never shimmied before.

The howl for heat went up from all angles, and by 12 o'clock the stoves were in place and working full blast.
